

Newton Art Association Newsletter

Greetings,

October's demonstration with watercolorist Marla Greenfield was a delight. She was generous with her knowledge and continued painting until 9:15 pm.

The NAA Board is working to get new locations for displaying your art. More on that later. Talking about displaying your art, if you're a new member this year or last, don't forget to apply to be in the New Member Show (see pg 5).

Finally many of our artists are in the Newton Open Studios Show & Sale and could use our support. See the flyer to the right.

November 11th Demonstration

Jeanne R. Smith

Jeanne R. Smith will be demonstrating portrait painting using pastels. She says that "a painted portrait is more than a photographic image: it contains personality and presence. There is beauty in every face, and painting a portrait calls out that beauty."

Jeanne Smith has been painting for 25 years. After teaching college English for ten years, she is now pursuing her love of art full time. She studied art at Georgetown University and at the DuCret School of Art. She began painting her children when they were very young, and has been taking portrait commissions ever since. Smith's work has appeared in national juried exhibitions and has won many awards. Her paintings are in private collections from Seattle to Monte Carlo. She is represented by the Francesca Anderson Gallery in Lexington, MA. Her website is:

COMING SOON

Workshop by Susan Fader

Early spring Susan Fader will be presenting us with another workshop on the latest in marketing and art reproductions.

Susan has recently published a book titled The Artist's Giclee Handbook. Since she has been so generous offering us free workshops, we thought you'd be interested in her book. More details later on the workshop. For the book go to:

www.artistsgicleehandbook.com

The Artist's Giclée* Handbook

The first book ever written on the subject specifically for artists!

An update from the author
The first edition books arrived in our offices September 17th. As of October 13th, the edition was sold out! I am overwhelmed by the response. Do you know the reason the cover is red? I selected it to remind myself that I wrote the book from my heart. I am ever so grateful for the everyone's support.
 - Susan
